

WOODLAND WONDERS

FOXES

Foxes are a wild animal that looks like a dog.
Foxes are mammals so feed their young milk.
Foxes have 4 legs and a very long furry tail.
Foxes have whiskers that help them to navigate.

Males are called fox and females called vixen.
The young are called pups, kits or cubs.

Foxes home is called den. This could be a hole in the ground or under a building like a shed.

We hope that you like our collages of foxes exploring their environment.
